

“Now I understand the message,” James said. “The next robbery is going to be at planet number four – a place with the name ‘Mars’.”

“Wait here,” Sally said. She went downstairs and got the telephone book. Sally gave the book to James.

“Look under the letter ‘M’,” she said. “I want to find the man on the bicycle.”

Sally sat at the window with her telescope. She looked at the hills around the town, but she couldn’t see the man on the bicycle.

James sat at the desk and opened the telephone book. He read the names.

Where will the next robbery take place?

“Sally, look at this!” James said. He was smiling. “Look at the name of the music shop – ‘Music And Radio Sounds’. Look at the first letter of each word – M ... A ... R ... S.”

Sally looked at the name of the shop.

Sally looked through the telescope again, but it was very dark.

“Let’s meet outside my house at nine o’clock tomorrow morning,” she said to James. “Let’s follow the bicycle marks again. Perhaps we can find the thief.”

What are Sally and James going to do tomorrow?

